

THE PRESS AND THE VOTE

Illustration: Jonathan McHugh courtesy of The Revolution Papers

'Journalism is another name for democracy, or, better, you cannot have journalism without democracy', said American journalism scholar James Carey. The NPHE's 2018 conference explores the relationship between journalism, journalists, democracy and elections on the 100th anniversary of the pivotal 1918 election. That election saw women vote in Britain and Ireland for the first time, the extension of the franchise, and the victory of Sinn Féin and the subsequent establishment of the first Dáil. Over two days at NUI Galway, the relationship between the press and the vote will be discussed and debated.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Prof LOUISE RYAN

The University of Sheffield

'The Irish Citizen as an archive of feminist history - reading the past through a newspaper'

REGISTRATION

Two Day: €70; student /unwaged: €35
One Day: €40; student /unwaged: €20
Dinner: €35

For information regarding registration please contact Forum secretary
Dr James O'Donnell at nphconference@gmail.com

Hosted by the Moore Institute in association with the Centre for the Investigation of Transnational Encounters and the Irish Centre for the Histories of labour and Class. With thanks for support to the College of Arts, Social Sciences and Celtic Studies Research Support Scheme and Gale Primary Sources.

COMMITTEE

Dr Regina Uí Chollatáin (UCD) Chair; Dr James O'Donnell (NUIG) Secretary; Felix Larkin (Ind) Treasurer; Dr Joan Allen (Newcastle University); Dr Richard Allen (Newcastle University); Joe Breen (Ind); Ray Burke (Ind); Conor Campbell (QUB); Dr Michael Foley (DIT); Alan McCarthy (UCC); Dr Mark O'Brien (DCU); Siobhán O'Donovan (NLI); Oliver O'Hanlon (UCC); Dr Maurice Walsh (Goldsmiths, University of London); Dr Aoife Whelan (UCD).

